Art Unit: 1623

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: page 1 of the specification fails to update the status of the parent application.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claims 48-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a method of treating fungal infections, does not reasonably provide enablement for a method of preventing fungal infections. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. The term "prevention" encompasses treating healthy hosts and preventing the same from ever getting a fungal infection i.e. the term preventing encompasses providing a vaccine. The specification fails to provide any evidence that healthy hosts have been treated. Since polyene macrolides are not known to be effective as vaccines, there is a good reason to doubt the effectiveness of the claimed methods in treating fungal infections.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 40-51 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-24 of U.S. Patent No. 6,664,241. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claimed compounds are encompassed by the patented compounds.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 40-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Falkowski et al (U.S. Patent No. 4,783,527) in view of Falkowski et al (U.S. Patent No. 4,093,796).

Falkowski et al'527 disclose polyene macrolide amides useful for treating fungal infections but do not disclose said compounds substituted by a saccharide. However, since Falkowski et al'796 disclose that substituting polyene macrolides by a saccharide increases water solubility of said compounds (column 5, lines 23-30), a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the instant invention was made would have been motivated to substitute the amide derivatives of polyene antibiotics disclosed by Falkowski et al'527 with a saccharide moiety because such a person would have expected the resulting compounds to have increased water solubility. Therefore, the claimed compounds, composition and methods are deemed prima facie obvious over Falkowski et al'527 in view of Falkowski et al'796.
